SUPPORTING THE UN TO SUPPORT THE WORLD

In 2014 I plan to help support the United Nations and global collaboration in order to work for world peace. We are facing largescale problems like climate change, diminishing resources, and global poverty. It is only through worldwide indiciplinary action that we will be able to solve these issues.

Organizations like the United Nations support such global interaction. The MDGs are a prime example of how international cooperation can attack some of the world's biggest problems. I plan to support such efforts through my professional career and by personally advocating and supporting global activity.
